

Ethan L. Struby

Carleton College
One N. College Street
Northfield, MN 55057

Updated: March 10, 2026
<https://estruby.github.io/>
estruby@carleton.edu

---

|                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                     |
|----------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------|
| CURRENT APPOINTMENT  | Assistant ProfessorDepartment of Economics, Carleton College, Northfield MN                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Fall 2017 - present |
| RESEARCH INTERESTS   | Macroeconomics and monetary economicsApplied macroeconometricsAsset pricing, Treasury markets, and macro-finance                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                     |
| EDUCATION            | Boston College, Chestnut Hill, MAPh.D. in Economics, May 2017Dissertation: Essays on Information in Macroeconomics and FinanceCommittee: Ryan Chahrour (Chair), Peter Ireland, Susanto BasuM.A. in Economics, December 2013Grinnell College, Grinnell, IAB.A. in Economics (with honors), May 2010                                                                                                                                                                                         |                     |
| PUBLICATIONS         | “Inflation Expectations and Political Polarization: Evidence from the Cooperative Election Study” (with Christina E. Farhart) Journal of Macroeconomics , March 2026Voted best paper, Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference 2024“Treasury Buybacks, the Federal Reserve’s Portfolio, and Changes in Local Supply” (with Michael F. Connolly) Journal of Banking &amp; Finance , November 2024                                                                                                      |                     |
| WORKING PAPERS       | “Macroeconomic Disagreement in Treasury Yields”“Shadow Rate Models and Monetary Policy” (with Michael F. Connolly) Resubmitted, Journal of Financial Econometrics“Explosive returns: teaching event studies using hydrogen bomb development” (Revision requested, Journal of Economic Education )“Knowledgeable partisans and inflation expectations” (with Christina E. Farhart)                                                                                                       |                     |
| OTHER SCHOLARLY WORK | “Would Active Labor Market Policies Help Combat High U.S. Unemployment?” with Jun Nie. Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City Economic Review , 3rd Quarter 2011.“News Shocks under Financial Frictions: A comment on Görtz et al. (2022)” with Thomas Ash and Giorgi Nikolaishvili. Institute for Replication (I4R) Discussion Paper 51, 2023. Included as a contribution to the meta-replication paper “Reproducibility and Robustness of Economics and Political Science Research”, Forthcoming, Nature |                     |
| PRESENTATIONS        | AY 2025-2026 St. Olaf College, College of Wooster, Cornerstone ResearchAY 2024-2025 Southern Economics Association Meetings (Washington, DC), Western                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                     |

|                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|----------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                            | Economic Association Meetings (San Francisco), Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Swarthmore)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                            | AY 2023-2024 Western Economics Association Meetings (Seattle), Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Kenyon College)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                            | AY 2022-2023 Western Economic Association Meetings (San Diego), Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Finance group workshop, Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Furman University)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                            | AY 2021-2022 Society for Nonlinear Dynamics and Econometrics (Spring meetings), Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis Applied Time Series Econometrics Workshop, Midwest Macroeconomics Meetings (Utah State)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                            | AY 2020-2021, including presentation by coauthors International Conference on Computational and Financial Econometrics, Western Economics Association Meetings, Midwest Economics Association, Eastern Finance Association, Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Society for Computational Economics                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                            | AY 2019-2020 Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Malacester College), Colgate University                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                            | AY 2018-2019: Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Wake Forest), Macalester College                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                            | AY 2016-2017: Boston College, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Securities and Exchange Commission, Carleton College, Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference (Davidson College), Midwest Macroeconomics Meetings (Pitt)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| PROFESSIONAL SERVICE       | Referee, Journal of Political Economy, Public Choice, Journal of Money, Credit and Banking, Financial Innovation, Journal of Economics and Finance, Economic Modelling, Economics Bulletin Paper Selection Committee, Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference 2020, 2022, 2023 (Organizer), 2025 Steering Committee, Liberal Arts Macroeconomics Conference 2020 - 2023, 2024-Present; Co-host, 2026. |
| CARLETON COLLEGE SERVICE   | College Committees: Learning and Teaching Center and Writing Across the Curriculum advisory committee (2 years), Junior Faculty Affairs Committee (2 years), Budget Committee (elected, Fall 2023-Spring 2025), Faculty Compensation Committee (Budget committee representative, Fall 2023-Spring 2025) Faculty parliamentarian (Winter 2023; Fall 2023-Spring 2025)                                                                                                |
| HONORS, AWARDS, AND GRANTS | Carleton Curriculum Innovation Grant,         “To support the development of a new interdisciplinary course on political and economic beliefs” Summer 2025 Carleton Curriculum Innovation Grant,         “To develop a lab-based course that introduces the use of computational methods for the analysis of economic models.” Summer 2023 Carleton Curriculum Innovation Grant,                                                                                 |

“To develop web applications and a related curriculum for active learning about long-run economic growth at the introductory level” Summer 2019

John Kenneth Felter Family Dissertation Fellowship Summer 2015, Summer 2016

MEDIA

Commentary and op-eds:

“Debt and its consequences must be front of mind amid swirl over reconciliation bill.”
Minneapolis Star-Tribune, June 30, 2025.

<https://www.startribune.com/big-beautiful-bill-national-debt-deficit-spending/601384146>

“Trump’s firing of Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioner will prove damaging”, August 5, 2025. The Hill.

<https://thehill.com/opinion/finance/5436074-trump-fires-bls-commissioner/>

Quoted on economic issues in:

US News and World Report <https://tinyurl.com/vvrzm9au>

The 19th (<https://tinyurl.com/3zjudf59>)

Minneapolis Star Tribune

<https://tinyurl.com/4yf2hwfc>)

Marketplace (American Public Media):

(1) <https://tinyurl.com/c5a884vh>

(2) <https://tinyurl.com/mpwd7r8n/>,

(3) <https://tinyurl.com/2dntfacf>

(4) <https://tinyurl.com/dufkrr9w>

(5) <https://tinyurl.com/52y7umx4>

(6) <https://tinyurl.com/4xx2vhyk>

(7) <https://tinyurl.com/4e4uzpxc>

(8) <https://tinyurl.com/3b7r2jsu>

(9) <https://tinyurl.com/yvhmbe4v>

Minnesota Public Radio Politics Friday

<https://tinyurl.com/44srb5mt>

Newsweek

(1) <https://tinyurl.com/886ekvzr>

(2) <https://tinyurl.com/44s39u2w>

COURSES TAUGHT

At Carleton College:

Principles of Macroeconomics Fifteen sections total, Fall 2017 – Spring 2026

Growth and Development Five sections total, Spring 2018 – Spring 2026

Money and Banking Winter 2019, Spring 2020

Advanced Topics in Macroeconomics and Finance Fall 2018, Winter 2022, Fall 2024

Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory Six sections total, Winter 2022 – Spring 2024

Economic Beliefs, Political Beliefs, and Identity (Co-taught) Winter 2026

OTHER EXPERIENCE

Research Associate, FRB Kansas City

Summer 2010 - Summer 2012